

JOURNAL OF MIDDLE EAST MEDIA (JMEM)

CALL FOR PAPERS

Communication faculty and graduate students throughout the world are invited to submit research papers for the 14th issue of the Journal of Middle East Media (JMEM) — a peer-reviewed journal sponsored by the Arab-U.S. Association for Communication Educators (AUSACE).

Published annually, JMEM accepts manuscripts in both Arabic and English (maximum word count is 9,000 words inclusive), and it provides a pioneering forum for studies and multiple perspectives about the continuously changing Middle East media and communication.

JMEM accepts manuscripts related to the following fields of research:

- the role of new media in the dissemination of news, information and entertainment
- transnational satellite channels and their political, social, economic and cultural impact
- theories and techniques of communication policy formation and communication planning
- implications of global Arab media and international communication
- women and the media
- nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) and the media
- cultural, social, and political implications of using social media
- Strategic, political, and organizational communication in the Middle East and the Arab World

The submission deadline is April 30th, 2018 for the JMEM fall issue of 2018.

Manuscripts should be submitted to the journal in an electronic format.

Electronic submissions in English should be sent as MS Word (Times New Roman, font 12, APA 6th edition) attachments to the following e-mail address:

hmesbah@rollins.edu

Attention: Dr. Hesham Mesbah,
Interim Senior Editor, JMEM

Arabic manuscripts should be e-mailed to:

aalshami8@gmail.com

Attention: Dr. Abdulrahman Al-Shami
Arabic Editor, JMEM

For more information on the journal, you can visit JMEM website:

<http://www.qu.edu.qa/jmem>

You must attach three Word files:

- Title page (with the title of the study, the names, affiliations and contact information of the authors)
- Abstract (maximum 150 words) and at least 4 Keywords
- Manuscript with the title on the first page, but no information that identifies any of the authors of the study. The total word count (including tables, charts, graphs, and references) should not exceed 9000 words. Post the tables and charts at the end after the references.